Locus Hill Lane Fire Remains Undetermined

DUBLIN – On Tuesday, February 10, 2021 just after midnight, the Washington Township Fire Department responded to a house fire on 5281 Locust Hill Lane. The home was currently going through a renovation process to become a group home and the structure was fully in flames when our trucks arrived. All four fire stations were called to the scene in its response. The fire was primarily under control about three hours later. No individual or firefighter was injured at the scene.

The Washington Township Fire Department did release the damaged home back to the homeowner and the insurance company within a day of the fire. Although our investigation is still ongoing, we no longer have control over the property. We would like to thank the City of Dublin and the Dublin Police Department for their help with the investigation.

The current cause of the fire has been ruled undetermined. An undetermined fire means the actions and intent of those involved in causing the fire is not yet clear. Our fire investigators are still conducting tests and the cause may be determined later with the introduction or discovery of new information. This type of investigation however can take time.

We will update the public about this fire when there is new information to be released.
